Greeting

---

To all who claim in common this their Alma Mater and to all loyal patrons, we present to you this volume embodying the pleasant recollection of another school year. We have endeavored, in recognizing the progress our school has made, to surpass in excellence the preceeding publications of the Graymaroon. To compile an annual worthy of our Alma Mater may have been a task too great for us but if we have succeeded in perpetuating the memories of our school life and projecting the glamour of the hours spent here into new and wider realms, we shall be content.

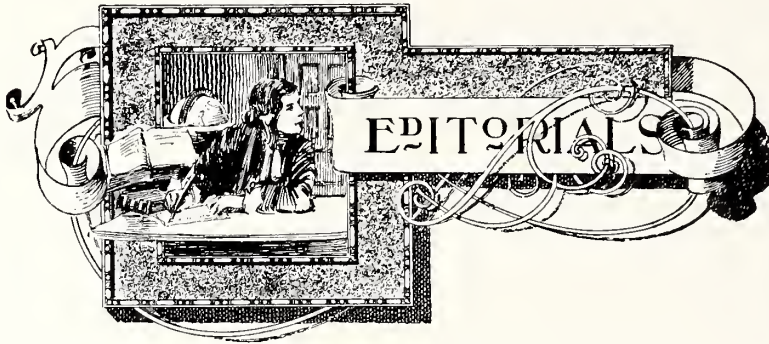

The Staff

To
Professor G. A. Flaury.

who has for more than twenty-five years,
efficiently and faithfully
given his service to Bethel College
as professor and as secretary of the faculty.
this volume is affectionately dedicated.

“Deacon” Epp has lots of pep,
For in debate he has the “rep.”
In his demeanor he looks the judge.
But in his heart he holds no grudge.

Marie Stauffer is a jolly brunette;
In Math there’s no one found as yet
Who can calculate the Calculus,
And do it with so little fuss.

Second Caruso is the aim of Ed. Goering.
His questions in Zoology are quite daring.
In games he’s disloyal to the Sophs,
But nevertheless, he’s the pet of the profs.

The quiet charms of former Miss Tiahrt
Have won for her a Bachelor of Art.
Banking and teaching, her former profession,
She has left behind for a nobler progression.

Anna Suderman is a lassie fair,
When she speaks it is with lightest air.
If she will, she will and you depend on it:
If she won’t she won’t and that’s the end of it.

Teon, the scientist of all the classes,
Never worries about the lassies.
Very fond of novels is he:
His aim is a physician to be.

Marie Stucky, the pedagogue of our class,
Will as a teacher some day surpass
The greatest scholars of our Nation,
When she comes to finish her education.

Celia Davis is a conscientious student,
And in her ways she is most prudent;
You will find her at work but once a day,
From break of morn till the light fades away.

“Dad” justly deserves his name.
As President he has the fame
Of being “Father” of the Sophs.
Who often gets in bad with the Profs.
He is an athlete strong,
And is renowned in song.

A singer we know in P. K. Regier,
As often in song he doth appear.
He by rights to the Juniors belong,
But joined the Sophs for reasons unknown.
And we are proud of him so strong;
His loyalty to us he has ever shown.

Jake is little, but Oh my!
To hear him debate would make you cry,
Out of sympathy for the other buy.
He slings the hash at the boarding hall,
And gives the signals at Basketball.

REFLECTIONS

- ANNA ENNS—A pleasing maid, whose winning smile,
Makes this old world well worth while.
- ISAAC BALZER—To multiply the pleasures of college life,
I took unto myself a darling wife.
- HELEN WIEBE—One who believes in being seen and not heard.
- ADELINE SCHRAG—The demure and studious member of the class.
- ARTHUR GRABER—Our editor and speaker; the pride of the Freshman class.
- FRANCES PENNER—Billiant, modest and fair, with loveliest hair.
(Not mentioning her blush).
- KATHARINE QUIRK—She never shirks her duty at vaudeville or school.
- JOHN KAUFMAN—"Then give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you."
- RUBY PERKINS—Now grave, now gay, but never dull.
- CLARA GALLE—She is happy, she is spry,
If you'll ask, she'll tell you why.
- ROY SCHOWALTER—Though a returned soldier, he still retains his hearty laugh and good looks.
- HANNAH DICK—The "petite infant" of the class, especially bright in English—she likes to talk.
- FERN BLACK—Sometimes called "Blackey." A dark eyed country lass, who is a jolly sport and a good friend. Her favorite by-word seems to be "Galle."
- JOE BECKER—"Moses," that great man of old,
He was a leader brave and bold.
The Freshman Moses, now the ladies' pet,
If he keeps going, may get there yet.
- RUTH HOHMAN—Ruth, our jolly Freshman lass,
Wears on her finger the sparkling glass(?).
Of her song we never tire,
And her laugh we e'er admire.
- LILLIAN GEORGE—Beware! of the preacher's black-eyed daughter.
Great things are always put up in small packages.
- ESTHER EPP—Reminds one of a bird, flitting now here—now there.
Make no remarks about her for she is sure to be within hearing distance.
- KATHRYN LOHRENTZ—By the influence of Kathryn's smile and helping hand,
This old world will some day gain a loftier stand.
- HERMAN GRABER—It is sometimes said: "You can judge the looks of a man by the name of his town." This, indeed, happens to be the case with Herman Grabber of Pretty Prairie.
- JOSEPHINE HOWARD—Though her name sounds much akin to coward,
You can find no trace of the same in our Howard.
Straight forward you will always find her face,
And with her to remain, inevitably means "pace."
- GUSTAV FREY—If love is blind then marriage must have been Mr. Frey's eye-opener.

Bethel College, January 7, 1927.

Dear old pal:

My radio is a success. I mounted from Bethel's new science building to the height of 30,000 feet; I pressed the radio button, the machine responded, as if by magic, gravitation was instantly neutralized. I remained stationary while the earth revolved beneath me. By means of my new radio-telescope and your radio telephone, I was able to hear and see all that went on beneath me.

At Washburn, Marie J. was sedately checking out books, and "Berdie" was receiving floral offerings from her kindergarten tots. At Lawrence I heard Lyd teaching the scale in high soprano tones. In Cincinnati maroon letters shone out from a gray background—A. B. B. B. S. Co. (denoting Aaron Bethel Basket Ball Suit Co.). In Washington the Honorable Addie, Kansas Eighth District Congressman, spoke eloquently for Universal Free Colleges. Here too the Margarets were demonstrating their new mathematical theory which they discovered at Bethel, 1919, that arithmetic may be taught by jumping up and down on tables and surprising the pupils. At Lisbon Ambassador Peepah and his charming wife, Mike, were entertaining the American Legation. In Turkey, Harold was recovering from a shock received while wiring the new Menmonite Mission College, under the careful administration of Nettie and Mart. On Mount Ararat I discovered Ben who had retired for perfect quiet, while writing his long expected novel—"Squeechies." At Tibet, Ella and Lieschen were doing helpful work as doctors and Tillie as preacher. Pete, at Peking, was enthusiastically teaching Chinamen football. In Japan, Helen was nursing a silk-robed princess. Back in California again, Nachtigal was engaged in scientific farming, while Mary Ann made his cheese and butter. Hawkins, in Salt Lake, conducted a mission to the Mormans. At Denver some of Gussie's famous cartoons were all the rage.

I tell you, pal, I am proud of the part my classmates are playing in the world reconstruction work.

Hip—Hip—Hurray—Three cheers for the class of 1919.

Yours,
Babe.

ELIZABETH FUNK

Canada, Kansas

The Senior class may always feel proud of having had Lieschen as their leader.

ADDIE ALICE SIEBERT

Pawnee Rock, Kansas

Tootsie will always be remembered as the sunshine of the class.

MATHILDA WEDEL

Hillsboro, Kansas

Tillie's silence spells determination and willpower.

BERTHA VORAN

Basil, Kansas

Birdies are small and so are the critical things in life which are the starting points in human destinies.

AGNETA BOESE

Springfield, South Dakota

Nettie's motto is that of Sophocles, "Much wisdom often goes with fewest words."

MARGARET EPP

Canton, Kansas

Eppie is short, but sweet and hard to beat.

HERMAN A. BECKER

Meno, Oklahoma

Aaron believes in taking joy and sorrow as they come, but one need only look on his beaming countenance to see that he is working for the betterment of humanity.

ELLA LICHTI

Deer Creek, Oklahoma

Ella has made her choice of life as a nurse in a foreign field.

FLORENCE MICHAEL

Newton, Kansas

Mike cheers us all with her substantial smile.

HAROLD GOERZ

Harold, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

MARGARET UNRUH

Of all the girls that are so bright, there is no one like our own Smarty.

PETER R. LINSCHIED

Arlington, Kansas

Pete in athletics has won his fame,
He wins a "B" in every game.

MARIE J. REGIER

Whitewater, Kansas

Marie J.'s aim is high and no doubt she will reach her mark.

BENJAMIN FREY

Newton, Kansas

Still and deep-thinking is Ben,
Yet he is jolly and pleases every man.

MARTHA GOERING

Moundridge, Kansas

For willpower strong and noble aim,
We look to Mart, our modest dame.

OTTO WINSINGER

Moundridge, Kansas

In science, Babe is a shark,
As an electrician, he has made his mark.

LYDIA ZERGER

CLASS HISTORY

History frequently deals surprises of more or less permanent nature and one which has shown itself to be a lasting marvel in the annals of Bethel is the advent of the class of 1920. In spite of the disgust of the Senior, the insolence of the Junior, and the sneer of the Sophomore, twenty-six Freshmen bravely pushed on through nine long months and at the end of the school year left their 1's on the big book in the office.

When school opened in the fall of 1917, nine of our number were missing, but new ones joined us until we were a class even larger than the year before. We confess, we were not always "little lambs" that year, but we are proud of the progress we made even though no one outside of the class recognized it. Then on a beautiful morning in September, 1918, we started in our Junior year. Only twelve of those who had been with us the previous year had returned and several of them joined the Seniors. During the year new members came to fill up the ranks and share our ups and downs.

As Juniors, we think we have made a good record. We have pulled our share of "boneheads" and otherwise contributed to the various activities of the school. We have tried to do our best and thus prove our loyalty to our Alma Mater. We intend to preserve our good record by doing greater things next year. We are ready to step into the Senior ranks and we believe we can assure that class that we will be an honor to the name of Senior.

THE SOPHOMORES

A group of sophomores are we,
Happy and gay and free.
None you could find as bright
If you'd search from morn till night.

Some of us are as simple and true
As the red, white and blue.
If you this truth deny
Of you the proof we will pry.

One is a basketball shark,
And sings like a lark.
For is he not the captain of our squad
Who rules us with iron rod?

Some study Algebra both day and night,
And others say Geometry is a fright.
But nevertheless they all hope to receive
A mathematician's degree.

In class, on school days,
We may pull boneheads (once in a while),
But on Saturday and Sunday
We are always in style.

When things go wrong and fail,
And we receive no praise,
We to the devotions go,
Or to the ten cent show.

High is our aim,
For we love Democratic fame,
And some day in books of fame
We desire to print our name.

THE ACADEMY FRESHMEN

He is never idle,
Always ready for the task,
Even if the task is rude,
He will try hard to be good.

He will never say, "I cannot,"
But will try his level best,
"If I only try my best,
Then I think I'll get the rest."

He is always climbing upward,
Climbing, climbing, every day,
Always trying to accomplish,
All he can, and not delay.

He will always try to be,
Helpful to this world of ours,
That some day with all the rest,
He can hear, "You've done your best."

Domestic Science.

The purpose of this course is to arouse in young women a greater interest in cookery. Emphasis is laid on marketing, and the economical preparation and dainty serving of nutritious foods. Utensils, the stove and the arrangement of the kitchen are discussed. Canning and baking are taken up and special attention is given to the planning and preparation of family meals.

Domestic Art

The object of this course is to give young women a practical knowledge of the selection of materials, the growing of textile fibers and the processes used in their manufacture into fabrics. In continuation courses, the manufacture and adulteration of woolen and silk materials are given special attention.

The first course stresses practice in hand sewing as applied to single articles, patching and darning. The following courses stress machine work.

Woodworking

Since Bethel College ministers to a community whose interest is largely agricultural, it would seem fair that a wider range of studies should be given than just the academic branches. The man on the farm cannot hire all of his technical work done without considerable inconvenience and loss of time. There will be small buildings to erect, hay racks to make, plow shares to sharpen and re-point, broken bolts to weld or replace, cement walks and tanks to construct, machinery to alter and improve, etc. These facts demand consideration in building the larger and better Bethel.

In order to provide for the above needs, there should be added to the present equipment, a blacksmith shop, machine shop, foundry and pattern making facilities. This equipment need not be added with the view of turning out technical experts, but since boys on the farm work with all kinds of modern machinery, they should have some opportunity of learning to make good repairs and also to gain a mastery over nature. Such training will make farm work more enjoyable.

Bethel College has provided for the training of teachers, preachers and missionaries. What shall the answer be to those young people whose interests are along the lines of farming, etc? If Bethel is to become more democratic it must seek to increase its range of service to a large number of people.

Pianoforte

The department has been organized to meet the demands for a liberal education in music. Its object is to furnish preparatory and advanced instruction to the average student and to offer adequate training for teachers. A course in pipe organ is offered to such as desire to acquaint themselves with some of the possibilities of the instrument.

The Vocal Department.

The cultivation of the voice in singing has come to be regarded as an important branch of education. The study of it, more than any other branch of music, gives inspiration and musical enthusiasm. Like many other natural powers, it is given to us in a crude state and needs development by the means which art has revealed to us, but we must expect the development to be slow.

Bethel College Oratorio Society

In developing a taste and understanding for the best in choral music, both in the community and student body, the Bethel College Oratorio Society has been no small factor.

Some standard oratorio or cantata from the pen of one of the masters is taken up for detailed study annually and featured as one of the special attractions during the commencement season.

Prior to this year the Society has always consisted of mixed voices. However, this year, due to the small number of male students, the chorus has become a ladies' chorus, and will offer a program of a somewhat different nature than heretofore. The program will consist of two distinct parts, one sacred and the other secular. The ladies are doing good work, and an interesting and inspiring concert is promised to all who attend. The Society numbers some seventy-five voices.

Alpha Beta

The Alpha Beta society was organized for the purpose of gaining literary and parliamentary training and also ease and freedom in public speaking. This year instead of following this prescribed program, they are making experiments in the field of dramatic art. For this it was thought unnecessary to change the name of the society and the constitution. It was decided that in learning the etiquette of the drama the same training could be acquired which regular literary work assured.

Delphians.

The Delphian Literary Society is the one organization in Bethel College to which only college men are eligible for membership. For the first time in the history of its existence all of the college men are members. The society gives ample opportunity for the development of the proper form of literary culture and debating, readings, music, parliamentary exercise are the lines upon which it acts primarily. A program is given each Monday evening, dealing with some topic of interest. The society holds its elections every nine weeks thus giving it a more democratic basis of working and giving each member a chance to serve frequently and in several different capacities. Undoubtedly the influence of the literary training received in the Delphian society will aid the student greatly in appreciating his own abilities. The student finds that the literary work done in the society gives him considerable ability to carry into effect some phase of the public speakers work. Every year the Delphians are presented in the intercollegiate debate team and in the oratorical contest; four men were chosen from their number to represent Bethel in the debate series. Three entered the oratorical contest. No doubt the members will some day look back with interest and appreciation to the hours spent in literary work.

Kidronians

The Kidronian Literary Society was organized in the fall of 1917, for the purpose of developing a more perfect idea of good literary forms. It is an organization composed of Academy girls. The society takes its name from the little creek, Kidron, which winds through the west side of the campus. It is interested in all phases of literary work which is shown by the great variety of programs. It concerns itself with musical selections, readings, debates and essays; some very knotty political problems and those of a more humorous nature are debated. Pantomimes, plays, and stunts add to the humor and goodwill of the society. Occasionally the society represents some interesting thing that has happened on the campus during the year. The motto of the Kidronian is: "Always B natural, sometimes B sharp, but never B flat." The motto suggests that they are not lacking for musical talent. The flower of the society is the "Red Rose;" this represents them as an ever blooming society. The society works with the Academy men's society in working out the Academy public programs. The type of work done by the society represents the proper type of literary work for the academy.

The Excelsior Literary Society.

The Philomathian and Athenian Literary Societies met on October 22, 1917, for the purpose of uniting the two societies. Mr. Joe Becker was acting president and Mr. H. J. Ewert, secretary.

On October 29, 1917, they met again and the new constitution was read and unanimously adopted. The two then formed what is now the Excelsior Literary Society.

The purpose of this society is to aid the student in the practice of parliamentary law, to enable him to conduct a meeting properly, to deliver in an intelligent manner debates, essays, and speeches, to develop a taste for good literature, to supplement school work and to bring the boys together in a social way.

The society is made up of the academy boys. They are taking a lively interest in this work and show a marked improvement since taking up the work in the fall. We hope to make this society a great success and we hope also that the Excelsior Literary Society will always be an educational feature of Bethel College.

Y. W. C. A.

As a member of the National Association, our Y. W. C. A. has endeavored to carry out the purpose of uniting the young women in loyalty to Christ through Christian service. With a membership of ninety it has tried to meet the social and spiritual needs of the girls through the various departments.

Regular association meetings are held every Wednesday at which time topics of interest are discussed by outside speakers or students. To further develop Christian growth, five voluntary Bible and Mission study classes were organized.

Besides the regular association work, war work was emphasized. Through Red Cross Work and participation in the various war work campaigns, the girls expressed their attitude toward World Fellowship.

The Association tries to keep in touch with the work at large through "The Association Monthly" and "The World Outlook." Then, too, delegates have been sent to the District Conference at Wichita, the Summer Conference at Hollister, Mo., and the National Conference at Chicago.

Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association proposes to develop in the young men a greater Christian character and to train them for leadership in applying the principles of Christ to the problems of human society. This it does by providing the necessary devotional meetings and organizing Bible and mission study classes as well as directing the social life of the men.

At 9:45 on Wednesday morning the organization meets for its regular weekly devotional service. Outside speakers are secured to speak at these meetings on various topics of social and religious life.

Besides this the organization, together with the Young Women's Christian Association supports a native missionary in India, and contributes yearly to the International and State Y. M. C. A. funds.

The community service department provides special singing in the local hospitals. To students who need financial assistance, the employment bureau offers valuable aid and hopes to extend its scope of service in the future.

Volunteer Band

The Student Volunteer Band of Bethel College is only a very small part of the Student Volunteer Organization of the world, but without doubt it is doing its share towards the evangelization of the world and the establishment of the Kingdom of God in the hearts of men. There has been a call for both men and women workers for the different fields of missionary activity which Bethel College has felt and to which it is making an ever increasing response. This organization consists of twenty members, the largest number that the band has ever had.

The object of this organization is to create active and intelligent interest in foreign missions and aid members in their preparation for service in the mission fields. Although its influence is limited to a small circle, it endeavors to arouse interest in various churches within its reach through missionary talks and programs given by the members of the band. The band meets weekly and discusses vital problems which lie in its field of interest.

Home Mission Band

Since the conclusion of the great war we have entered a period of reconstruction. The devastated battlefields of Europe must be rebuilt; commerce and industry are and will be undergoing great changes; international affairs are being constructed on a new basis. But reconstruction to be complete must include also a bettering of the moral and spiritual life of the nations. The old social order is crumbling; new ideas and ideals are coming to the front, and it is to this great task of constructing a new edifice of greater permanence that the Home Mission Band has directed its attention.

The Band has a large membership this year and great interest is shown in the discussions at the weekly meetings. "The Moral and Religious Challenge of Our Times" by Henry Churchill King forms the basis of the discussions, although they are in no way limited to it. The Band hopes to be of service to the neighboring communities by giving programs during the latter part of the year. The officers of the Band are P. K. Regier, President and Mrs. A. V. Tieszen, Secretary.

Student Council

On September 21, 1917, the student body of Bethel College adopted the constitution for the Student Activity Council. A week later the representatives in this council were elected by the students. The spirit in which the Student Activity Council was organized, finds expression in the preamble of the constitution: "We, the students of Bethel College, feeling the need of a representative body to manage certain student enterprises, and recognizing the inherent right of the student body to govern themselves, do hereby organize and establish this constitution as the organic law of an executive and legislative body of students by the name of Student Activity Council."

As provided by the constitution, the election of the council members for 1918-19 took place early in the school year. The college representatives are John Thiessen, Elda Ringelman, J. D. Epp, Joe Becker, Elizabeth Linscheid, and Anna Suderman; the representatives of the academy are Mary Ann Loganbill, Elizabeth Funk, Sidney Hawkins, Otto Winsinger, and Pete Linscheid. The council organized itself with the following officers: President, John Thiessen; Vice-President, Elda Ringelman; Secretary, Mary Ann Loganbill; Treasurer, J. D. Epp.

Committees for Athletics, Oratory, and Debate were appointed who together with respectively appointed faculty members arranged for a number of Student Activities. The chairmen of these committees were respectively: Elda Ringelman, Elizabeth Linschild, J. D. Epp.

Outside of the regular duties that fall to the council, the most important was the procuring of the Bethel Service Flag and Honor Roll.

Bethel College Glee Club.

The Girls' Glee Club is under the direction of Miss Fern DeMar, the vocal instructor. The girls are practicing with a great deal of pleasure and interest and are looking forward to a series of spring concerts which they will give in the towns lying close to Newton. They realize the importance of such visits. It is not only admirable training for the girls, but the spirit of college life can best be interpreted to the representative communities in this direct way. The girls feel a greater responsibility because Bethel does not have a men's glee club this year to assist them in disseminating the spirit of Bethel.

The Quartette.

Because of the small enrollment of men students in Bethel, no Men's Glee Club has materialized. A quartette, however, was organized out of Glee Club members of former years. It has had its daily rehearsals for the purpose of working up a concert which it expects to give in some of the neighboring towns. It has also served on different occasions in College and outside activities. Miss Wanda Isaac has been reader and accompanist for the quartette.

The Social Science Club.

The Social Science Club of Bethel College was lately organized for the purpose of encouraging scholarship along social lines. It is composed of faculty members and college students. Membership is on invitation only. The aim is to invite such people to membership as are qualified by interest and training to profit by the deliberations and activities of the Club. Thus far carefully prepared papers have been read and discussed and books and magazine articles reviewed. The following departments of the college are especially interested in this organization: Bible, History, Education, Economics and Sociology. By attending the meetings of the Club both teachers and students have an opportunity of finding out what is being done in the different departments of the social science group. Then, too, the Club affords a good opportunity for students and teachers to get into closer touch with each other.

Officers for the spring semester were: president, Prof. C. C. Regier, and secretary-treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Linscheid. Meetings are held about once a month.

The Bethel Breeze

The Breeze is a weekly publication edited by the students and published in every Tuesday evening issue of the Newton Daily Kansan. The students felt the need of a paper which they could call entirely their own, consequently when this offer was made by the Kansan Company, it was gladly accepted.

The paper gives the students an opportunity to interpret the spirit of college life as they see it to all who are in any way interested in the school. The journalistic knowledge derived from the work gives it educational value and as such receives recognition from the faculty. The citizens of Newton are also brought to feel more vitally the importance of the College, by having this school atmosphere brought right into their homes. It extends Bethel's influence and that is the aim of every progressive school.

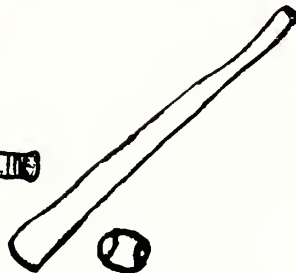

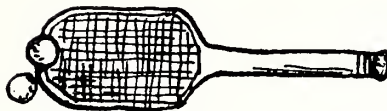

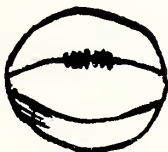

The first number of the Breeze was published January 8, 1918, with Nelson Krebbiel as Editor-in-Chief. Since then, Alfred Linscheid, Wanda Isaac and Arthur Graber have served equally well in this capacity.

MR. R. A. GOERZ

To Mr. Goerz belongs the credit of keeping athletics at Bethel up to the recognized standard. In 1917, he took up the work of coaching our teams and last year, as well as this, his efforts in their behalf were unlimited in spite of the fact that he is one of the busiest men in Newton. He has won the admiration of all the students and it is deeply regretted that this is his last year in this work.

MR. WM. DOTSON

When towards the close of the baseball season, Mr. Goerz found himself too busy to give the time that he wished to coaching, Mr. Dotson offered his services as active coach for the rest of the time. We are gratified indeed for the services of this famous Newton basketball star; the training he gave the boys in a short time is sufficient evidence of his capability.

Basketball 1918-1919

JOE BECKER.....Captain and Guard

Joe, with three years of varsity experience behind him, knows the game thoroughly and is fully qualified for the honor of being captain. He not only knows the game but plays it and in his position as running guard was indispensable to the team's success. His offense and defense are equally strong, but he excelled in floor work and in getting the ball out of the danger zone and into the varsity territory. When the signal was given for "Moses" to take the tip-off, everyone might just as well get out of the way because he was bound to get it.

PETE LINSCHIED .....Guard

Pete played a heady game throughout the entire season and it took a mighty good man to get past his steady and consistent guarding. He was a streak at intercepting long passes and often turned a defensive into an offensive play by his quick work. You never caught him napping; with Pete guarding the enemy goal, no one was worried.

JOHN THIESSEN .....Center

Although Thiessen lacked the experience that most of the other players had, his work at center showed well. He was very successful in getting the tip-off to the varsity men and consistently made generous contributions to the number of goals, competing closely with Unruh in the total of points made. His playing was clean and open and he was Johnny on the spot at all times.

OTTO UNRUH ..... Forward

Unruh was a new man in school this year, but soon distinguished himself as a contender for the forward position. He never failed the ball when it came in his direction and his superb shooting under the goal was his strong point. He was perhaps the most accurate hoop hurler on the team and led his teammates in garnering baskets. He had an inexhaustible store of pep and always went into the game like a whirlwind.

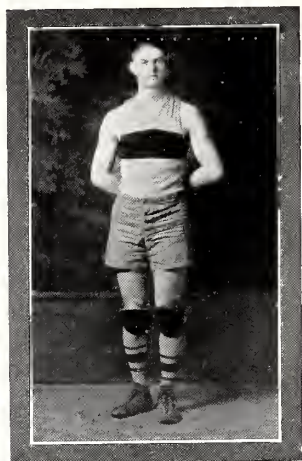

DAVE REMPEL ..... Forward

Rempel held his old position at right forward and there displayed that wonderful speed on the floor which was long delighted Bethel basketball fans. No guard was too tenacious for him to get away from and his luck at caging long ones was a source of despair to them. Rempel played a hard game and managed to get more bruises than any fellow on the team.

HAROLD GOERZ ..... Forward

Harold showed keen competition for a place at forward and is a sure comer for that position. As substitute, he has made a good showing and with a little more experience will be a realiable man in the future. His true aim in shooting for field goals is hard to excel and on the free throw line, the point is certain.

ARTHUR GRABER. Guard.

Though Graber has the handicap of inexperience, he has a good working knowledge of the game and has the makings of a strong player. The times he was given a chance to exhibit, he played a lively game at guard and showed the proper fighting spirit throughout.

Baseball 1919

The basketball season was hardly at a close this spring when the boys hunted all their baseball paraphenalia and began making preparations for this other great diversion.

Up to the time of this writing, there has been little opportunity for a real workout at practice game on account of rain and cold weather, and consequently the line-up has not taken definite form. There is not the wealth of material this year as in times past and prospects for an exceptionally strong team are not so good as they might be. But the essential thing is to keep the national sport alive in Bethel and the interest manifested in it is doing that. Four letter men are back on the job. They are: Joe Becker, Herman Becker, Herman Unruh, and Dave Rempel. Out of about twenty other candidates the following will very likely be chosen to fill various positions: Ed. W. Goering, Martin Voran, Henry Vogt, Walter Vogt, Alvin Van der Smissen, Otto Unruh and Roy Schowalter. Games are being scheduled with about five different schools.

Basketball Season 1917-1918

SINCE Bethel's basketball history is rather short, it probably will be of interest to the friends of the school and to the basketball fans to have the connected statistics of every year in which our school has participated in inter-collegiate athletics. The reports of the first three years are found in former annuals and in this year's annual we do not want to neglect give a glimpse of last year's tussels.

When the basketball season opened, there was quite a little anxiety as to the makeup of the team because there were only Rempel and Becker of the former year's team who were trained by coach Schroeder. This meant that the new coach, Mr. Goerz, was obliged to select three new men, a thing which was, however, not so difficult for right in the beginning, Dyck, Graber and Linscheid proved to the coach that they were entitled to the vacant positions. With this lineup—Rempel and Graber, forwards; Dyck, center; Linscheid and Becker, guards—all the nine varsity games were played.

The work of the team was fine. The men played together consistently and there were no attempts on any one's part to play the game alone. Captain Rempel, forward, was a fast, heady floor man; his dexterity in making baskets from impossible angles was remarkable and because of his speed, few guards were able to keep up with him. Graber, Rempel's partner in the caging business, played a steady, dependable game; coming in with little basketball experience, by the end of the season he was doing excellent work. Dyck, center, was high man in goal shooting, having 58 to his credit when the season closed. His foul record was remarkable, he had only eight chalked against him in nine games played. Dyck was the team's pride, with him and the ball under the basket, a goal was as good as made. Linscheid played waiting guard. The few baskets credited to him show how faithfully he stayed at his position while as a result, his man could not be counted on for many baskets. J. Becker, running guard, kept his opponent so closely covered that his chances at the basket were poor to say the least, while at the same time, Becker managed to make enough baskets to come third in the list. The substitutes, N. Krehbiel, R. Krehbiel, A. Becker and J. Thiessen did excellent work whenever they got into the game. However, their chances to display their ability were rather limited because the regular men were able to play practically all the time.

The season as a whole was a success. To be sure, three games were lost, but our boys fought gamely and lost each one by only a small margin. As against a total of 214 points for opponents, we had 329.

Baseball 1918

THE baseball season opened in 1918 with only a small nucleus of men who had intercollegiate experience in the national game. Walter Niles, a veteran of three seasons behind the plate, had graduated the previous spring. Ernest Penner, who had cavorted around the keystone bag for three years, was also lost to the team by the graduation route. Oswald Krehbiel, who used to be stationed at center field, had graduated too. E. Lichti, third baseman of the previous year, was not in school. Omer Schowalter, short stop, Herbert Stucky, left field, and Herman Unruh, right field, were also missing when the season opened. "Moses" Becker, pitcher, and "Nellie" Krehbiel were the only letter representatives of the team of the former year.

Coach Goerz faced the proposition of developing practically a new team. In as much as football had been discontinued, the previous fall had been devoted to baseball and he was thus able to get an early line on his new men and also to instill a few baseball ideas into them. The team that was finally selected consisted of Hohman, catcher, who had a good peg and allowed little pilfering as long as he was on the job. Moses Becker, who had demonstrated his ability as a slab artist in previous years, came up to expectations. He had a selected variety of benders that was sufficient to set most of the opposing batsmen on their heads. His control was excellent and he used to advantage the grey material under his cap. Nelson Krehbiel held down the initial station in first class shape. His great reach enabled him to retrieve many otherwise wild throws and his innate baseball sense was of great value in bolstering up the defense of the team. He batted in the cleanup position and was a surefirer on the "squeeze play." Willard Graber covered second base in capable fashion and his heavy hitting was a material aid to the offensive powers of the team. Pete Linscheid had command of the show field position. He was the initiator of double kills that always relieve a pitcher when he is in an embarrassing positio. At third, Dave Rempel held sway and gave promise of becoming a baseball player. Out in the outer gardens was A. Schmidt, while his long hits were timely and they kept the scorer busy, his fielding ability was not far behind his prowess as a hitter. "Aaron" Becker, a brother of the redoubtable Moses, "shagged" the ones that came out into the middle grounds. He was good for an occasional long wallop. Ralph Eyman was designated for duty in right field. He was a careful player and few balls passed him.

The unsettled conditions in the country at large had compelled many of the other colleges to drop baseball and so some high schools were given a place on the schedule. The team's playing was characterized by close defensive as a rule, occasionally blowing. They were past masters at the squeeze play and had it down to a nicety, being crushed very rarely, indeed. The team as a whole hit well and were not dependent on anyone single method of attack.

Eighth District High School Basketball Tournament

FOR the second time, Bethel played host to the Eighth District basketball teams, staging a tournament in the college gymnasium on March 21, afternoon and evening, in which Wichita high school won the championship title and cup in class A, and the Newton seconds took first honors in class B. It was unfortunate that so few schools of the Eighth District could take part in the meet this year. Moundridge and probably several other teams were kept out of the tournament by a "flu" scare and similar circumstances prevented a number of other high schools from entering the race for the title.

PRELIMINARIES

Wichita defeated McPherson in the first game of the afternoon, coming up at the end of the fourth quarter with 48 points to McPherson's 24. Wichita started off by tallying two ringers in initial moments of the game and kept right on going. Helfke, at forward, totaling 10 field goals, and Ungar, all A. V. L., and all-state guard, both played an admirable game. McPherson had a pair of aggressive little forwards in Staplin and James, but they were pretty well smothered under Wichita's long-armed guards.

The Newton highs met Halstead in the second game of the day, and in the first quarter looked like an assortment of puppets at the mercy of the Halstead team. Halstead came on the floor strong in the first quarter and, using their big center, Rupp, as a key, worked the ball for seven field goals while Newton could claim only one. The second quarter began to tell a different story for the famous Newton criss-cross passes were becoming very much in evidence and the old time accuracy in shooting had come back. The first half ended 21 to 18 in Newton's favor, and the final count stood 40 to 29, the local lads having the heavy end. Halstead had a good man in Schowalter, forward, and Rupp, at center, these two men having probably more experience than any of the Newton team, but they lack the fast company in which the members of the Arkansas Valley league travels.

FINALS

Newton seconds and McPherson seconds put up an interesting exhibition in their clash for the class B title, as the first game of the evening series. Newton won easily by a score of 42 to 9.

Wichita played Newton in the championship game, winning the cup and the title after four quarters of hard playing. Helfka and Wheeler, at forward for Wichita, did all of the shooting and did their work well. Newton team played its usual good floor game, but was handicapped by size.

Dave Rempel and Joe Becker officiated at all but the final and championship game which was handed over to Mr. R. A. Goerz. The officials handled the games well and good will and clean sportsmanship prevailed in all the contestants.

The Newton Rotary Club offered the beautiful cups which were awarded the winners in each class at the end of the evening, by President Kliever. The Student Council very much appreciated the friendly spirit and the good will which these awards by the Rotary Club indicated.

Girl's Gymnasium

The purpose of the gymnasium work for girls is to insure the taking of regular exercise. Too often exercise and play are crowded aside by the constant demands upon the girl's time. A certain period set aside for is more respected; if necessary, she is only too glad to forget work for a time and enjoy herself in a strenuous hour at the gymnasium. Marching, drills and calisthenic work is carried on. Especial emphasis is laid upon games. This year, the girls played basketball for several weeks. Games of this nature promote agility, good sportsmanship, keenness of brain and eye, accuracy in the use and co-ordination of muscles. Whenever possible, at least part of the work is carried on out-of-doors. Hikes, marching and games on the athletic field form the program on fair days.

Track

Regular track teams here are to be revived! During the last few seasons baseball has taken up most of our athlete's spring interests, but since the number of schools indulging in the national game is dwindling fast, all energies will soon be devoted to running track and vaulting pole. The Athletic Association provided for some additional equipment this year and set every available man out to condition himself that Bethel may have a first class representation at the state meet held in the S. M. T. N. S. (Pittsburg) field on the 16th of May. Several of the old time sprinters and shot jugglers are getting back into form, but they will not find it an easy task to win the coveted "B" from the young hopes who are quickly rounding into shape.

Tennis

For the students who want exercise and do not desire to indulge in the minor sports, tennis affords a great deal of pleasure. It is a game that is not too strenuous for the normal girl and yet appeals to the most active of men. It requires skill, accuracy and training. There is no wading in as in football or basketball; it is a game that takes brains and good judgment. There must be delicacy in playing, and a careful placing of the ball means more than does a hard smash. The game develops activity and agility, it requires a keen eye and speedy thinking.

Bethel has room for a number of courts, but they need care; backstops in particular are necessary. The ground should be put in such shape that a rain would not make them worthless for a week. LET'S PUSH TENNIS AT BETHEL.

IRVIN HAURY

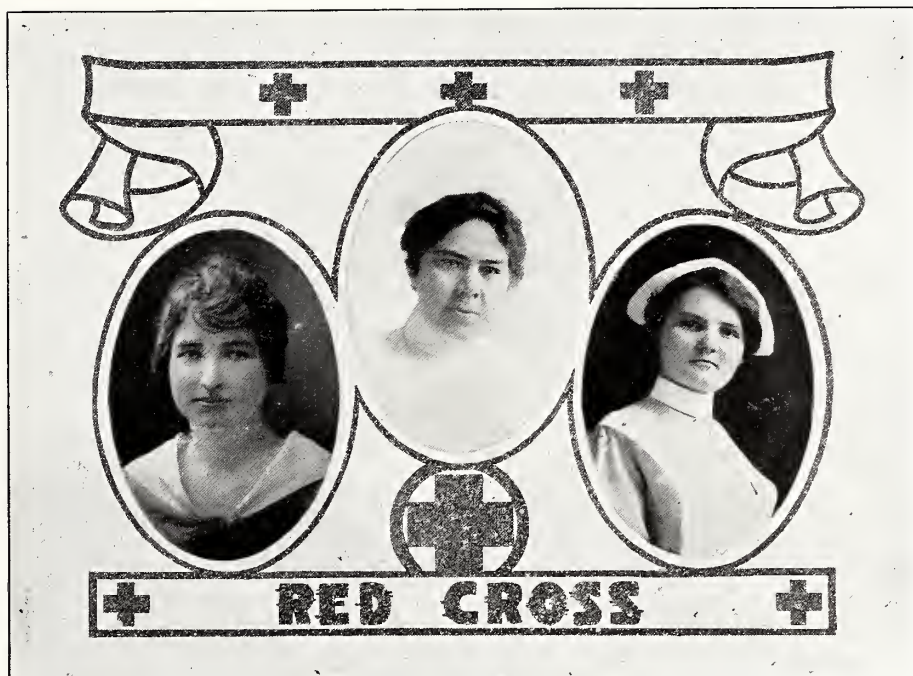

LAUREN FINNEL

OMER SHOWALTER

Irvin Haury graduated from Bethel College in the spring of 1916. The following year he received his master's degree at the University of Kansas. The year 1917-18 he was Professor of French and Spanish at Bethel and on March 26 he was united in marriage to Miss Cora Molzen. May 27 he went to Camp Funston where he was employed in the receiving station; his death occurred September 28 at the camp after two days illness of meningitis. His exemplary qualities made him a favorite on the campus, in school, and at the camp.

Lauren Finnel of Newton entered College in the fall of 1916. In the following April war was declared and the call for volunteers went forth. Lauren was one of the first to answer the call; he belonged to Company K which had its headquarters at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. In the spring they left Camp Mills, N. Y., for France and there in October he fell in the Battle of the Argonne.

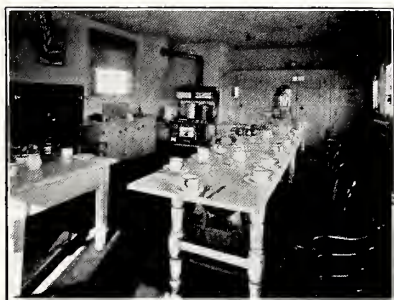

Omer Schowalter of Moundridge began his associations with Bethel in fall of 1914. He remained here two years when he entered business. The call to service interrupted his work and he was enrolled at Camp Funston. Here in October he contracted pneumonia and died October 27, 1918. The astronomical slab, imbedded in the ground south of the college, was partly his work and has his initials. It will remain a fitting memorial of a young man of admirable qualities.

Jokes

Prof. Hartzler (To A. V. Tieszen): "A woman has her way at the end, anyway. Is it not so?"

A. V. Tieszen: "I don't know."

Prof. Hartzler: "Try it a little longer."

Moses (To Clara): "I am surprised that you are quiet this morning."

Clara: "I have nothing to say."

Noah: "I suppose she thinks because it is Sunday it is good to take a rest."

One of the dorm girls once saved a piece of cake from lunch, and when she left for class she placed it on her table. Upon her return it was half gone and she found this note lying beside it:

Oh roommate, dear, I've spilled the soup
 And I know you'll raise a whoop;
 I realize the great mistake
 I made in eating half your cake.
 But won't you please let me explain
 Before it gives me greater pain.
 Oh yes! forgive, for conscience sake
 That I did spoil your piece of cake.
 Right after you had left for school
 I felt a little like a fool,
 And, hoping that I might feel better,
 Began to read my sister's letter.
 Quite interested, void of sense,
 My thoughts did wander far from hence,
 And thus before I realized,
 Your piece of cake was minimized.
 I hardly know what I shall do
 That I might make amends to you;
 But if you'll pardon and forgive,
 We can proceed in peace to live.
 And as you suppose, she was forgiven.

Deacon: "If I were you I would change my name, Kaiser."

Kaiser: "I have told you several times I'll wait until I get a chance."

Wanda: "I don't see why everybody has to pick on me."

Fern: "I didn't know that anyone had picked you."

Prof. Schmidt: "Who were the tax collectors in New Testament times?"

John Thiessen: "The Pharisees."

Aaron was telling at the table how the Freshmen were always hitting him on the mouth while playing basketball, when Noah remarked: "I don't see how they could miss it."

Prof. Burkhard (in Psychology): "How long can you attend to any one thing, say to this pencil point?"

Buck Balzer: "Indefinitely, if I want to."

Prof. "Then we'll have to take you to the state hospital."

Jake Dirks, speaking about the Phylogentic Forces in Sociology, made the remark: "Romantic love is what got me."

Uncle Davie: "What causes the rings about Saturn?"

John Thiessen: "Gas."

Uncle Davie: "Is it like the hot air you are feeding us?"

Penner: "Say Mose, I heard Rempel was awful sick."

Mose: "Oh no, he isn't sick; he has just got the 'flu.'"

Moses: "Say Fern, I sang to A flat yesterday."

Fern: "I am going to C today."

Moses: "I bet I can go lower than you anyway."

Fern: "Well then, you go down and I'll go up."

Walter Vogt: "Oh boys, there is a lecture tonight."

Dirks: "Are you going to make a date?"

Vogt: "Yes, if I do not get discharged."

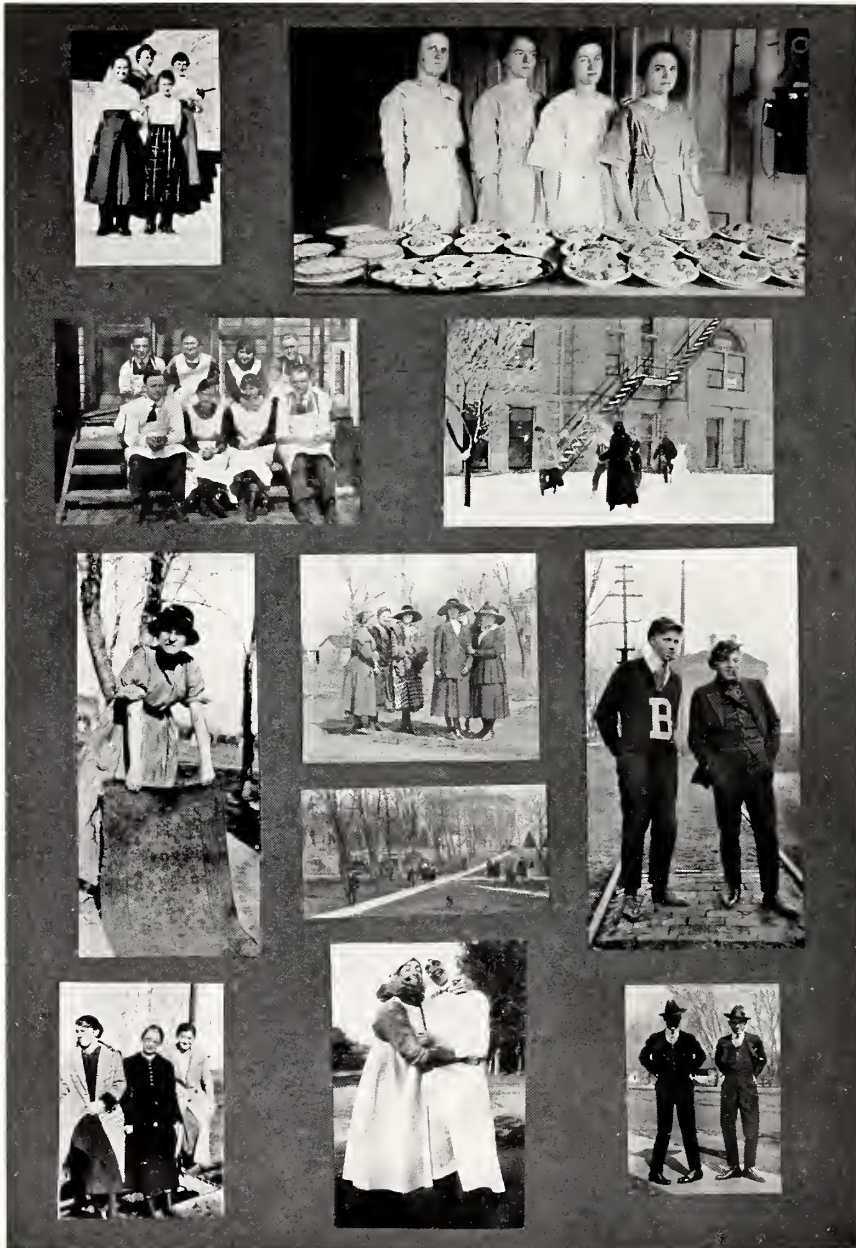

P. E. F.: "Say Doc, (Ed. Schmidt) you are going to give a report on demonology at the next Social Science Club, aren't you?"

P. K. R.: "You can give that without any notes, can't you?"

Galle: "Has a lobster a backbone?"

P. K.: "No, he is like you; he has none."

Galle: "How do you know?"

Fritz (Anna Lohrentz) talking about studying for English exams.
Kaiser: "Let's review together."
Fritz: "I want to get some more 'dates' first."

---

Anna: "Martha, did you know rabbits lay green and pink eggs?"
Martha (dreaming): "No, honest, do they?"
Anna: "Yes, Easter eggs."

---

Prof. Schmidt: "Who really determines what is womanly?"
Pete Frantz (eagerly): "Why, the men."

FAVORITE EXPRESSIONS

REMARKABLE REMARKS

Though I shall have all knowledge and have not common sense, I am as sounding brass.—Samuel Burkhard.

Everytime I open my mouth I stick my foot in it.—Celia Davis.

I don't want anything in the annual that I do, think or say.—Mary Ann Loganbill.

The most famous line in the English language.—Miss Ligo.

After reading several quiz papers; perfectly true, perfectly general, perfectly meaningless.—Professor Regier.

Better be in the game of life making 10,000 mistakes every day than being on the grandstand eating peanuts and explaining the game to the ladies.—Professor Hartzler.

I shall never enter politics because I was born in Canada—if I can't be the president I won't be anything at all.—Wanda Isaac.

The indestructibility of matter was discovered in a college boarding hall.—Professor Doell.

Gregory VIII was pope from 590 to 1025.—Mosc Becker.

Closing remark for first semester work in Sociology: "This finishes public opinion."—Professor Schmidt.

Doctor Kalbfleisch told me that I and another lady were his only "flu" patients now.—Herman Unruh.

Deacon will understand women better after he has married one, he will learn not to contradict them.—Professor Doell.

When I used to go to school here, I was awfully fat, just like a butterball: why I was as fat as the hills.—Miss Frieda.

Oh! I wish it were summer so that I could go to Oklahoma for Christmas.—P. K. Regier.

---

Hermann Graber to Art Wedel: "Did you teach school last year?"

Art: "Yes."

Herman: "You surely must have had to put a big reducer on your vocabulary to teach youngsters."

---

Noah: "Hasn't he a rubber on his pencil?"

Uncle Davy: "No, he has it on his neck."

---

George Penner: "Busenitz, you ought not to guy me like that."

Busenitz: "Well, that's all you are good for."

AVI. SERVICE.

Herman Becker: "Say, Burkhard, can you tell me where to find the books on biography and friction (fiction)?"

---

Prof. Burkhard: "How do we know this is a yard stick or a ruler?"
Isaac Balzer: "By past experience."

---

Miss Warren: "Do you like grape fruit?"
Florence Michael: "Is there any difference between grape fruit and grape-nuts?"

---

Elizabeth (when Prof. Regier had the "flu"): "Say Addie, Prof. Regier said his 'Acadamy' history class was punk."
Addie: "Oh kids, I didn't know he was delirious."

---

Edna Ruth: "Mary Ann, are you taking Teachings of Paul?"
Mary Ann: "No, I'm taking the Gospel of John."

---

Anna S.: "Girls, let's tell how we want our proposals."
Elizabeth L.: "It's too late for me."
Wanda: "Oh, its settled then?"

---

Esther: "Marie told me you told her that secret. I told you not to tell."
Alice: "Its beastly of her to have told you that! Why, I told her not to."
Esther: "Well, I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me. So don't tell her I did."

---

Laura: "Edna Ruth, please make my bed. I'll will all my property to you some day if you do, my cameo, my muff, my watch, and all my silk dresses."
Edna Ruth: "Good, how much longer are you going to live?"

---

Kaiser, at the supper table, said: "Say boys, I wish somebody would give me a ride in a little Ford."
Busenitz: "Did you ever see a big Ford?"

---

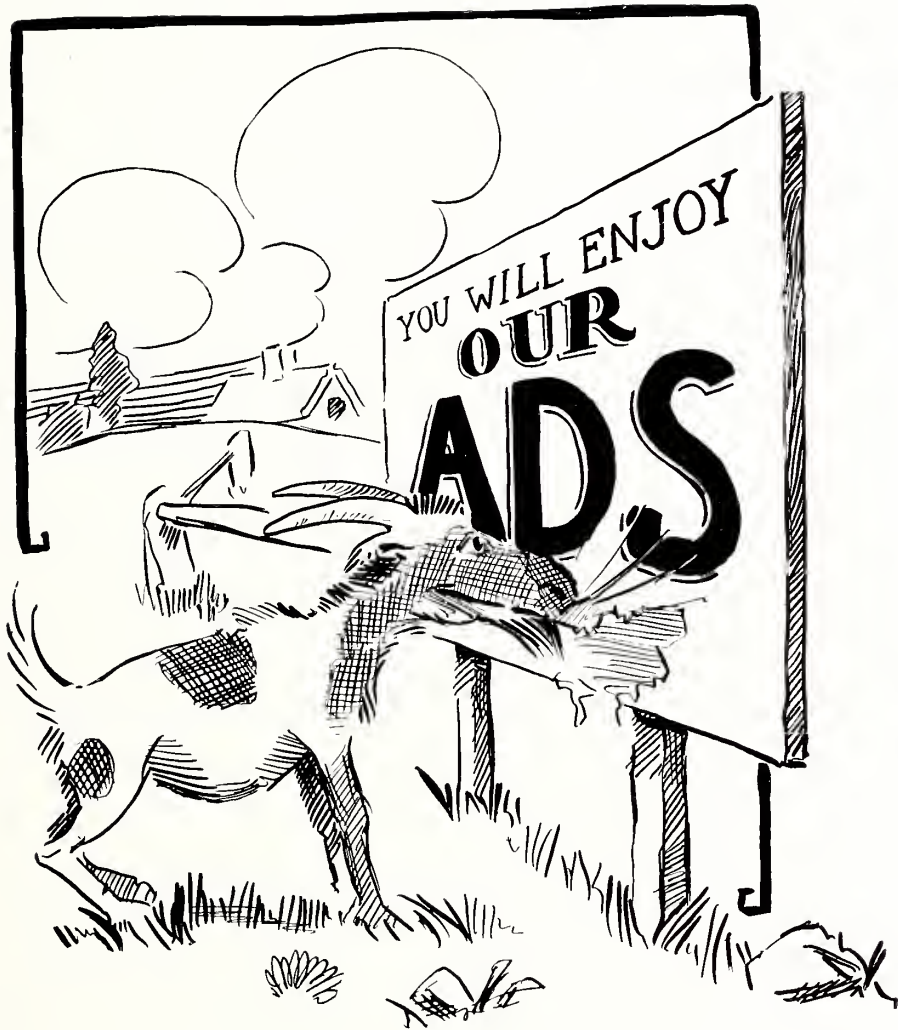

Prof. Richert: "Miss Dick, supposing you try to tell Unruh how far the sun is away from the earth."
Hanna Dick: "I don't think I'd be able to."
Prof. Richert: "Is he so dense?"
